

Shopping on EtsySelling with EtsyHelp homeShop ManagementGrowing Your Shop

Working with Production Partners on Etsy

A production partner is a company or individual (who's not part of your Etsy shop) that physically produces items based on your own, original designs from start to finish, such as a printing service, an apparel producer, or an engraver.

You can't add production partners to supplies and vintage items.

Why work with production partners?

Sellers often work with production partners for these reasons:

- Equipment access: You don't have the equipment or technical ability to manufacture the items you designed.
- Design application: You need specialized services to apply your designs onto items (printing, embroidery, engraving, etc.).
- Business growth: Your business is growing, and you need help keeping up with order volume, or you've outgrown your current production space.

i Items produced with a production partner must abide by Etsy's Creativity Standards. We require sellers using production assistance to transparently share this information on the applicable listings. Buyers can see information about any production partners you work with from your shop's About section.

Learn more about Etsy's ethical expectations for sellers who work with production partners.

What kind of production partners can I use?

You can use a production partner of any size, ranging from an individual crafter to a large-scale automated manufacturing facility. Here are some examples of production partner types:

Type	Description	Examples
Print-on-Demand (POD) Services	Companies that print and ship individual items only when ordered	Printful, Printify, Gooten

Cut-and-Sew Manufacturers	Specialists in producing sewn goods from provided patterns	Local sewing studios, textile factories
Contract Manufacturers	Companies that produce products according to your specifications	Small-batch manufacturers, custom jewelry producers
Specialized	Services that perform specialized	Laser cutting services,

Production Services	techniques on your designs	professional printers
--------------------------------	----------------------------------	--------------------------

Who is not a production partner?

You should not list the following as production partners:

i Working with non-qualifying businesses to source products for your Etsy shop violates our marketplace policies on reselling, and may result in penalties up to and including account suspension.

How to add a production partner

To add a production partner on Etsy.com:

to add a production partner on Etsy.com:

1. Sign in and go to Shop Manager.
2. Select Settings and choose Partners you work with.
3. Select Add a new production partner and fill out the information form.
4. Enter your Production partner. Toggle Show this production partner's name to buyers if you want the partner's name visible on your shop. If you don't want the name to be shown, enter a public Descriptive title (such as "Apparel printer") that describes what kind of business they are.
5. In the Location field, enter your partner's city, state, province, etc. As you type, select from the list that appears.
6. In the About production partner field, describe how you work with them. This public information can include why you chose this partner and the types of services that they provide for you.
7. Select answers from the More about your partnership dropdown menus. This information is for Etsy's internal use and won't be shown to buyers.

8. Preview how this will look on your shop's About section.
9. Select Save partner.

Other ways to add a production partner:

- While adding or editing a listing, you can add a production partner in the Production partners section of your Listing details.
- In the Listings section of Shop Manager, select at least one listing and choose Editing options, then Change production partners.

At this time, you can't add new production partners in the Etsy Seller app. Add new partners on Etsy.com, and they'll appear as options in the app when you create or edit a listing.

How to remove or edit a production partner from your listings

You can edit or remove a production partner in you can edit or remove a production partner in several ways:

- Select the listing(s) you want to edit from the Listings page. Choose Editing options, then Change production partners. De-select the partner or Edit, and choose Update.
- In Partners you work with, choose the pencil icon near the name of the partner to edit, or the X to remove. These changes will automatically be reflected on all linked listings.
- On the Etsy Seller app, production partner profiles can only be removed while adding or editing a listing. You can access the other editing tools on a desktop or mobile web browser.

If the listing editor requires you to add a production partner but you don't have one, review Etsy's Seller Policy to make sure that your items meet our guidelines.

Production partners only apply to items that you have designed, or that you have sourced and the buyer has customized. Production partners don't apply to items that you or your shop members physically make.

After you disclose your production partners

In order to make sure that your items and shipping details are accurately represented to buyers:

- Update your listings' shipping locations to accurately reflect if they are shipping from a production partner's location.
- Fill out your shop's About Section to tell the story of how you design and create your items.
- Check our Listing Image Requirements to ensure your listing images meet our standards.

Did this resolve the issue?

☐ Yes☐ No

Related articles

How to Open an Etsy Shop

What Can I Sell on Etsy?

How to Verify Your Seller Information for Etsy Payments

How to Set Processing Times, Processing Profiles and “Ship By” Dates

What is a Payment Account Reserve?

Still have questions?

Contact support

© 2026 Etsy Inc.
Terms of Use
Privacy
Interest-based ads

English (United States)▼